National and International commemorative days, events and Festivals:

India is renowned for its multicultural, multilingual, and multi-ethnic society, where individuals from diverse cultures, languages, and ethnicities coexist peacefully. The country's cultural diversity and vibrant national festivals, such as Independence Day and Republic Day, are globally recognized. The institute acknowledges the significance of these pivotal days in the national calendar, celebrating them with fervour and devotion.

Annually, the AIPS organizes events to commemorate national festivals and the birth/death anniversaries of eminent Indian personalities, social reformers, and freedom fighters. These celebrations aim to sensitize students to the profound contributions of these leaders to the nation. On the eve of these occasions, various co-curricular activities, including essay writing, elocution, and painting competitions, are conducted. Winners receive certificates of appreciation during the celebrations.

To instill environmental awareness, the institute actively participates in World Environment Day. Students enthusiastically engage in activities like tree planting and cleaning their immediate surroundings. On this occasion, students pledge to protect the environment in their daily lives.

Avanthi Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences is committed to the holistic well-being of its students, faculty, and staff, fostering a sense of responsibility towards national and environmental causes.

NATIONAL GIRL CHILD DAY

National Girl Child Day is commemorated in India on January 24th annually, dedicated to raising awareness about the significance of girls in society and advocating for gender equality. The day serves to highlight the challenges faced by girls, including gender discrimination, inequality, and limited access to education and healthcare. It also provides a platform to promote initiatives and policies that empower and safeguard the rights of girls in areas such as education, health, nutrition, and legal support.

This day serves as a poignant reminder of the need to invest in the education and development of girls, fostering a more equitable and inclusive society. AIPS college actively celebrated National Girl Child Day by organizing a series of events, seminars, workshops, and awareness programs. These initiatives aimed to advocate for the rights and well-being of girls, encouraging the elimination of harmful practices like female infanticide and child marriage.

The enthusiastic participation of all students, both boys and girls, in these events underscores the collective commitment to the cause. The success of National Girl Child Day at our campus is evident through several key indicators. Robust participation rates among students and faculty demonstrate a shared dedication to the cause. The awareness campaigns effectively conveyed the importance of the day and shed light on the challenges faced by the girl child.
